

CONCERN EXPRESSED OVER WATER IN LOWER BUCKS COUNTY WHEN STEEL WORKERS MOVE INTO THE COMMUNITY

Bucks County Planning Commission Hears That Water Supply in Lower Bucks County is One of Great Magnitude — Residents Are Alert to Necessity for The Proper Zoning Laws.

Great concern, due to the expected influx of steelworkers, was expressed over the water supply in Lower Bucks county, by members of the Citizens Council for Bucks County Planning Commission meeting Tuesday evening to discuss plans for future activities. Great progress had been made in zoning during 1950, it was reported.

A letter was drafted to be sent to those interested in zoning, asking for proper distribution of the letter, "Look What's Moving In Next to You!", and offering speakers for any group desiring a correct understanding of zoning.

Joseph Forsythe, vice-president and acting head of the Delaware Valley Protective Association reported great interest and desire to assist the aims of the council by the approximately 2,000 members of the association. He also asked president George Duval to attend the next meeting of his group as speaker. He added that the association, which he said covers an area from Morrisville to Easton in both New Jersey and Pennsylvania, would assist in distribution of a large number of the leaflets.

A great deal of satisfaction was expressed over the decision of the County Commissioners to appoint a planning commission for Bucks county.

Mr. Duval reported a letter received from the Citizens' Council on City Planning for Philadelphia, including maps of population changes and trends. He also reported a talk at Cornwells Heights by himself and Philip Naumberg. People in the area, he said, are very much interested in zoning, and ordered several hundred leaflets.

One member recounted a story concerning a well known man from Philadelphia, who recently refused to buy a property in Bucks county, which delighted him in every way, cause it was located in an un-zoned township.

V. L. Sanderson reported that the water problem in the lower area of the county, is one of great magnitude, with everyone concerned about the coming avalanche of steel workers, without the proper water supply for them.

Since many meetings have been held outside of Doylestown, it was decided to hold a large public meeting with suitable entertainment in the county seat in the near future.

SPEAKER TELLS OF WILLIAMSBURG PLAN

Trevoze Horticultural Society Given Interesting Talk by Miss Phillips

400 ATTEND MEETING

TREVOZE, Jan. 20 — A graduate of Vassar College, Miss Marguerite Phillips, spoke before about 400 members and friends of Trevoze Horticultural Society, Tuesday evening, presenting a detailed word picture of Williamsburg, Va., which has been restored to its original setting and which annually is the mecca for many tourists. Miss Phillips showed a large number of slides. Some of the pictures were taken at the time the restoration of the town was started. Others were taken about ten years later.

A third set of slides depicted the town in its restored state. Miss Phillips commented particularly about the flowers and shrubs which grew there when Williamsburg was in its height in the 17th century. The outstanding plantings at that time were the large and beautiful boxwoods. The speaker also described the numerous plantings of beech trees. At some places they are planted in two rows with each tree about 12 feet apart. As they grow the tops of the trees are so trained that they will meet with the result that a tunnel is formed underneath. These tunnels, it was pointed out, provide excellent shade throughout the entire summer.

A survey of the audience revealed that approximately half of it had previously visited Williamsburg.

Mrs. William Linforth, Hulmeville, had charge of the little flower show, in which Mrs. Ethel Dungan, Bustleton, was the first place winner in three of the exhibits. These were a centerpiece depicting a winter scene, a semi-miniature arrangement of dried material and a dish garden she had made herself.

The first place winner in the exhibit of house plants was Mrs. Bishop, Haboro. Exhibits in this department were quite numerous and attractive. They included Christmas cactus, African violets, gloxinias and impatiens. Judges were Mrs. Trump, Mrs. Kerns and Mrs. Thomas, the latter from Elkins Park.

Mrs. Wells, of Seabrook Farms, New Jersey, will speak on plant propagation at the next meeting on the evening of February 20.

TELLS OF DANGERS OF COMMUNISM

Dr. Walter Mohr, George School, Says It May Undermine Democratic System

BEFORE TRAVEL CLUB

"There is danger of the Communists undermining our faith in our own democratic system. Our job is to make this democracy work." This was one of the thought-provoking statements made yesterday afternoon by Dr. Walter Mohr, a member of the staff at George School, Newtown, when he addressed Travel Club members.

Going one step further, Dr. Mohr advised: "Our way of life is worth service and sacrifice," this being followed by criticism of "Starry-eyed Americans—those who do not see the realities."

The program for the second club session this month was outlined by Mrs. A. Russell Burton, chairman of international relations and peace service committee of the club, the theme of the day being woven about the title of said committee.

Dr. Mohr, who was engaged in work with one of the Economic Co-operative Administration committees in Washington, D. C., last summer, in addition to informing of work of the E.C.A., spoke of his experiences in relief work abroad a few years ago. He gave emphasis to constructive peace activities, and considered with club members the present world crisis. "In this age of crisis there is a conflict of ideas—conflict between Communism and the western way of life," he struck a grim note when he stated "If we should lose our way of life, it would never be regained. The maintenance of our way of life is one of the responsibilities we have."

Two outstanding aspects which the struggle between east and west takes on, he pointed out, are the military ("which we over-emphasize") and the economic phase of the struggle. "One of the important things we have done is the attempt to stabilize the lives of millions in western Europe in the past few years. I never saw so much suffering as I did in Europe in 1946-47. It made one wonder if the people could ever get out of the situation."

At this juncture he spoke of the great advance of production in Europe under the Marshall plan.

That hysteria over Communism is not as great in western Europe as it is here was made mention of

THE TIE THAT BINDS

Leaving the weightier problems of the world to one side for the moment, it can be said nevertheless that these days provide a reasonably good test of male character.

It happens every year. No fewer than 60,000,000 neckties were purchased for gifts during the recent shopping spurge known in the trade as the Christmas season, and 85 per cent of them were selected by women.

The Men's Tie Foundation, Inc., which reports this figure, is silent on its inner meaning. But those who are not in the tie business need have no such inhibitions. All this signifies that a lot of ties that no man would have the nerve to buy for himself go off the shelves to add to the holiday merriment.

If this isn't a test of character, what is? No one seems to have worked out a science of character reading based on Christmas neckties, but there is little doubt it could be done.

The man who flaunts his Christmas neckties like a banner may be color blind. He may be very much in love with his wife, or mother, or maiden aunt. Or maybe she has money and he hopes to be remembered in her will. He may, on the other hand, be a henpecked husband. Again, he may be a man of courage carried to the verge of foolhardiness.

These various types with similar behavior could undoubtedly be distinguished by noting subtle variations. Henpecked Milquetoast, for instance, may be observed wearing a quieter necktie shortly after he has slipped stealthily into the gentlemen's lounge. The man of brash boldness or afflicted eyesight will be a sight for sore eyes to avoid long after the holidays' passing.

The chap who doesn't wear his Christmas neckties at all is one who knows how to handle women. It might pay other males to hang around to try to learn his secret. They might break the ice by asking him what he thinks of the hand-painted jobs they're wearing.

WOOL SHORTAGE

Belgium, Italy, France and other European countries are outbidding the United States for Australian wool, according to H. J. Devereaux, South Dakota wool man, who has returned from a two months' trip down under.

Australians cannot understand, Mr. Devereaux says, why the United States has asked that it be favored in exports of wool at the same time that it is furnishing money for other countries to outbid it for the fleece. His observations leave no doubt that wool prices, now at unprecedented high levels, will go still higher.

Australia today has 6,000,000 more sheep than the United States and Australian sheepmen are highly prosperous. The Australian wool clip, worth $16,000,000 in 1932, jumped in value to $168,000,000 in 1949 and an amazing $420,000,000 last year.

enough pay, but to serve on a jury is regarded as a civilian performance of duty, just as a soldier or sailor makes sacrifices rendering a service to democracy."

Gonzalez, who was suing his former employer, James A. Kelley, Crofton salvage lumber dealer, for $1,000 in wages, received a verdict of $800 by a jury in civil court before Judge Edward G. Blester, concluding a one-day trial.

The plaintiff, a truck driver and yardman, testified he began working for the defendant, a lumber yard owner, Feb. 13, 1950, and was employed until July 1, the same year.

His wife and two children moved into the defendant's house and the plaintiff's wife took care of the defendant's home, "looked after his teenage daughter" and paid $35 towards a utilities bill.

The plaintiff, who denied he ever received any weekly pay, testified he was supposed to get $50 a week and put the business on a "paying basis." There were utility-gas and electric bills—amounting to $87 and $125, which were not paid, in the defendant's name.

Although the defendant's house had a hot water heater in it, the defendant used the gas range in the kitchen and an electric heater in the bathroom day and night to heat the house.

"I only handled $125 in actual cash all the time I was working in the lumber yard," said the plaintiff, who denied that he "paid himself" out of what he sold in the salvage lumber yard.

Witnesses for the plaintiff included his wife, Sophie, who said her husband never brought home any wages; John J. Linden, 75, pensioner, railroad, and William R. Whiteman, West Bristol, both of whom were employed 13 and six months respectively by the defendant.

The defendant, whose wife is dead, testified he took the plaintiff's family in because they had been evicted from their Parkland home. He denied that he ever hired the plaintiff or that he worked for him, but admitted he drove his trucks and they went on trips to Philadelphia.

Joseph Henke, 18, and Joseph W. Geiger, 30, Crofton, witnesses for the defendant, testified the plaintiff was not working there, but admitted they saw him around the lumber yard.

Henke testified the plaintiff broke a dump truck in half because the load of lumber was not securely fastened and the body flew up when "Gonzalez took off."

Henke, who is 18, caused slight consternation in the trial when he testified that the plaintiff took him to taprooms to drink, three nights a week, and said: "These are on Kelley."

Recalled by his counsel, the plaintiff denied that he ever took Henke to a taproom. "He is underage," he said sharply.

In less than a quarter of an hour, the jury reached a verdict.

Sorosis Hears Interesting Talk About The Art of Silversmiths

LANGHORNE, Jan. 20 — Miss Elaine Cooper, Philadelphia, a member of a family of silversmiths, spoke before a very interested group of about 100 people Wednesday afternoon in the Langhorne Library, when the Sorosis met there.

Mrs. Horace Townsend, president, introduced the chairman of the Fine Arts committee, Mrs. Cleon Pannepacker, who in turn introduced Miss Cooper, whose ancestors started the silversmith business in England about 1880. However, the business is now being conducted in Philadelphia, with English sterling being their specialty. Some authentic pieces were shown by her, namely, a pair of Sheffield telescope type candlesticks, a replica of Washington's sword, also of a marriage cup.

Their business is mainly making reproductions, both English and American. Miss Cooper spoke mainly explaining the markings on English sterling, mentioning London and Birmingham also.

Each person was given a chart showing markings on all London made sterling back to 1697, the century when tableware was first introduced.

There are four markings on authentic sterling, each must be on a shield, sometimes an extra mark is added, that being the head of whoever happens to be king at the time.

American silver was very scarce in olden times and a great amount was made from silver coins.

Miss Cooper had offered to identify silverware brought to the meeting, a great deal of American, which was brought had no markings. The rarest type displayed was a silver bowl brought by a member, the bowl having been in the Peale family, relatives of George Washington.

In 1905, a law was passed where silverware had to be marked as to the type it is.

The group was told that each person should keep a record of when and where they purchased their silver for the sake of their descendants.

Research of this product has only been going on for the last 75 years. Fifteen girls from the Home Economics class of Neshaminy high school were guests at the session.

MESSINGER SHOWS PROTEGES HOW GAME IS PLAYED

CORNWELLS HEIGHTS, Jan. 20.—Coach "Johnny" Messinger showed his proteges of the Bensalem High team just how it is done. Playing with the Faculty quintet last night, Messinger looped in 13 field goals and three fouls to lead his team to a 53-43 triumph over the Bensalem Varsity team.

Messinger was the whole show as almost everything he threw up went through the rim and there seemed to be no stopping of him. He paced the Faculty in the first half when it garnered a 30-22 lead and then continued to keep up the scoring in the second half although he received help from Johnny Slaven, Flannery, and Whitney.

The Bensalem girls were given a surprise when beaten by the Women's Faculty sextet, 28-20.

The Faculty discovered that it had a good scorer in Mrs. Beverly Whitney, a history teacher, and fed her the ball most of the game. She scored 10 double-deckers, Annette Reber scored three field goals.

For the Bensalem girls, Roberta Wetzel was high as she cut the cords for six twin-pointers.

WARRIORS DROP 8TH GAME OF SEASON

Bristol High, "blew" a 12-point lead last night as it dropped its eighth game of the season in losing to Ambler High, 41-33, on the local court. It was the Trojans second win of the season in ten starts.

The Warriors had a commanding 22-10 lead at the end of the first half and then its defense cracked completely. Slow but sure, the Ambler boys began to cut into the lead until it tied the score at 23-23. The score was again deadlocked at 25-25. In the last period, Bristol took a 29-28 lead at one stage but that was the finish as far as Bristol being in the lead was concerned for the visitors forged ahead and were never headed the remainder of the tilt.

Speaks of Water Resources At Women Voters Meeting

Dr. Gilbert Fowler White, president of Haverford College, vice-chairman of President Truman's Water Resources Policy Commission, and a member of the Hoover Commission on natural resources, in his talk before the Newtown League of Women Voters at George School, Tuesday evening, said: "We are presumably using up more water each day, each week, each month, and each year than can be replaced in the same given time. Physically this is not quite true—man has shown a lack of intelligence in using water, and we have more industry and a greater population.

"The proposed amount to follow out the recommendations of the Hoover Commission in flood control is roughly 50 billion dollars—ten times as much as has been spent up to 1948, and about the figure spent in one year in national defense."

HIGH SCHOOL VARSITY ADDS ANOTHER WIN

The Bristol Junior Varsity team added another win to its list last night as it took the measure of the Ambler Junior Varsity, 39-26, in a hard-fought struggle on the Bristol court.

A last period rally gave Coach "Chick" D'Angelo's team the triumph. Ambler was ahead, 29-28, as the final got under way but "Jackie" Bowe came to Bristol's rescue as he scored 7 points to practically clinch the game. Bob Stroble scored a fielder in the last session with Pat Rossi and A. DeCearse getting fouls.

Al Newman led the Ambler team in scoring with six field goals and a foul for 13 points. Bowe ended up with 19 for the Bristol Jayvees.

BRISTOL GIRLS SWAMP DELHAAS AND WIN, 51 TO 18

Coach Barbara Yerkes used 20 players yesterday afternoon as the Bristol High girls' basketball team swamped Delhaas High, 51-18, on the local court.

It was the second straight win for the Bristol lassies who seemed to score at will.

The locals piled up a 32-6 lead at the half-way mark and then suffered a let-down in the third period when Jean Harman scored the only three points of the quarter. Delhaas failed to score in the second period and even helped Bristol along when Hope shot the ball into the Bristol basket.

Pat Woodring and Nancy Almond scored 37 of the Bristol points with 19 and 18, respectively.

THE WAR

key road and railroad junction astride the central invasion corridor through the forbidding Soback mountain range. Hutton and Astaire Co-Stars of New Musical Betty Hutton and Fred Astaire, two of Hollywood's most talented and popular stars, are teamed for the first time in Paramount's Technicolor musical comedy, "Let's Dance," which opens Sunday at the Grand Theatre.

A brilliantly mounted production loaded with hit tunes and spectacular dance sequences, according to preview reports, the picture is said to be the year's top musical hit. Frank Loesser, composer of "Baby, It's Cold Outside," wrote the entire musical score for the film including the already popular "Why Fight the Feeling."

"Let's Dance" gives Betty Hutton an opportunity to demonstrate her amazing versatility. She not only sings and dances in her inimitable style, but shares four dance routines with the peerless Astaire, including ballet, ballroom and tap. This is Betty's fifteenth motion picture in Hollywood.

by Dr. Mohr. "The clever propaganda of the Communists has made little impression on the people there." Turning attention to the plan of the Communists for this country, the mentor had this to say: "Anything the Communists can do to weaken our economic situation they will. What is siphoned off in the military field in this country will weaken us economically. We've got to keep the productive part going in western Europe. That is tremendously important. Here in this country, we have a great advantage in that we have established living comforts unbelievable to those who don't know what life in the western world is like." To give emphasis to this the speaker told of the boy-like gleam on the part of Russian soldiers coming in contact with Americans, and who have been able to acquire such things as wrist-watches, motorcycles, etc., for the first time in their lives. "To off-set some of the things that the Russian soldiers have learned through contact with people of the western world relative to our way of life, many have been sent by the Russian government to Siberia for 're-conditioning' after returning home... Oh, if we could just get our ideas across! The battle of ideas is more important than the atom bomb. If the west can maintain its economic stability without any kind of depression there is not much danger insofar as our safety is concerned. The time has come when we have to give until it hurts. Any person who undermines our way of life by profiteering is worse than a Communist."

Dr. Mohr spoke of "the constant effort all over the world to discredit democracy." "Our job is to make this democracy work. If we can inspire our youth one-half as much as the Fascist leaders did, we are safe." He added "If we can get to the world what it is to live in a free society, we will have gone a long way toward winning the fight."

An international touch was also presented in the music for the day. The vocalist, Mrs. Thomas L. Doran sang in delightful manner in four languages: "The Lass with the Delicate Air" (English traditional); "L'Ultima Canzone" (Tosti in Italian); "LaReve" (Debruck in French); and "Cavellitos" (Valverde) in Spanish.

The club president, Mrs. Elwood P. Goslin, introduced to the group a new member, Mrs. Calvin Rush. Minutes were presented by Mrs.

Michael A. Harrity, recording secretary. The speaker listed for the Jan. 26th meeting is Dr. Madeline Holland, of the Phila. College of Pharmacy, her subject to be "Modern Miracles in Medicine."

Announcement was made that Mrs. Alvin K. Schindewolf has been named blood donation chairman for the club. Mrs. Harry T. Neher expressed gratification at response to a call for Red Cross staff aides. Reports on plans for canteen classes, both in the city of Phila. and in Bucks Co., were made by Mrs. Ralph B. Scheffey and Mrs. Keith M. Rosser. Members voted to cooperate in support of the proposed hospital for this area.

Among other plans discussed were those for the 50th anniversary dinner of the club, the date being March 16th. This affair, to which guests may be invited, will be in St. James parish house. Mrs. Richard T. Myers announced a session of the literature group, Feb. 9th, at the home of Mrs. Ernest Lawrence, Jr., Torresdale.

Presiding at the tea table were Mrs. William H. H. Fine and Mrs. Keith M. Rosser.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry B. Flagg have just had word from their son, Cpl. Emerson E. Flagg, who is a reserve in the U. S. Army in the Quartermaster Corps. He states that since Dec. 15th, he has covered more than 10,000 miles, starting from the Oakland Army Base, hugging the coast to Seattle, Wash., where they loaded cargo. The Pacific was smooth sailing and they arrived in Pusan, Korea, Jan. 7th. He further states a tent city has been built in Pusan for the Quartermaster Corps. The country is desolate there, it must be seen to appreciate how much so much filth and the people are hungry. He sighted a U. S. hospital ship leaving the harbor loaded with American wounded; he says the Air Force are doing a marvelous job there. Christmas day on board ship each person was presented with a package worth $5.00, the gift of the American Legion.
